Of great importance in the military-patriotic education of young students is the widespread use of the rules of pedagogy and psychology. Morality is, first of all, a sense of conscience, conscientiousness. This is confidence and truthfulness. Our ancestors developed a set of criteria for the moral assessment of a person, created, in modern terms, an "Eastern Moral Code". In the soul of man must be born resistance to dishonesty, dishonesty, to those who do not find bread honest. Only such a person stands on his word, does not blink an eye at someone else's right, does not spare his life to defend the Motherland and the people, and vice versa, does not feel a sense of patriotism. Any evil deed, selfishness, hypocrisy is a betrayal of the Motherland. Morality is one of the forms of social consciousness, a set of rules of behavior that people living in a particular society must follow. Morality manifests itself in a system of rules of behavior that in a certain way regulate the relations of people to each other, to society, the state, the national heritage, the family, the Motherland, and their native land. Morality is a set of requirements, norms and rules adopted by society, imposed on the behavior of people in society, family, work, in relation to each other and in relation to themselves. The builder of a democratic society must work honestly for the good of society, be highly aware of social duty, it was argued that honesty, truthfulness, moral purity, simplicity and humility are necessary in public and private life. Of great importance is the fact that our military-patriotic student youth shows what they are capable of, on the one hand, by selfless education and raising the level of deep knowledge, as well as behavior, morality, spiritual beauty. At present, they remain an ardent source of public respect and love, demonstrating love of life, patriotism, humanity in the most difficult spheres of work and creativity. Because we are faced with someone who is free from the complications of the past, has his own independent opinion, is faced with the task of educating harmonious heirs capable of self-sacrifice in the interests of their nation and Fatherland. Military psychology, which studies the psychological activity of cognition in the conditions of military service in a peaceful and combat environment, is also important for the organization of military-patriotic education. Military psychology develops practical recommendations for the psychological preparation of young people to fulfill their duty to defend the Fatherland
